

CREW THOUGHT PILLOWCASE ON WM TRACKS WAS A NEWSPAPER

The engineer and fireman of a Western Maryland Diesel switcher, which fatally injured William Paul Repine, 18, of Indiana, Pa., Tuesday morning in the cut just west of Gettysburg, saw Repine before the engine and caboose passed over him, they told state police investigators at the Gettysburg substation Wednesday afternoon, but thought at first that a white pillowcase on which the Indiana man was lying was a newspaper which had blown onto the tracks.

The five-man crew of the work train all answered questions put to them by District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter, Sgt. Joseph E. Temple and Cpl. Frank E. Yercavage. They were accompanied here by Lt. E. J. Chapman, Hagerstown, a special agent for the railroad. Police said today that the investigation was being continued.

The engineer, Samuel J. McCleary, 34, of State Line, Pa. and the fireman, David F. Jones, 44, of Fairplay R. 1, Md., told practically the same stories, police said.

Saw Body Too Late

They told investigators that the engine and caboose left Hagerstown at 5:40 a.m., daylight saving time, for Hanover, where it was to pick up the cars of a work train and proceed east of Hanover. They placed the time of the accident at 7:03 a.m.

McCleary said he was in the cab, which is between 20 and 25 feet back of the front part of the engine, sitting on the right side, looking ahead, and Jones said he occupied a similar position, looking down the tracks on the left side, police said.

Both saw what turned out to be the pillowcase on which Repine's head was lying, and thought it was a piece of newspaper. They said that the body was in the shadow beneath the bridge on Reynolds Ave. Almost simultaneously they both saw, within seconds, the body between the rails.

McCleary, the questioning developed, immediately applied the brakes and sanded the rails. The train, they estimated, was approximately 200 feet from the body when they saw what they believed to be a newspaper, police reported they said.

Crew In Caboose

When the train was stopped after passing over Repine's body, the rear wheels of the caboose were 90 feet from the body, police said. The wheels of the train did not pass over Repine. The train's speed was estimated at between 20 and 25 miles per hour.

Other members of the train crew were in the caboose and knew

MORE FAMILIES ARE NEEDED TO ENTERTAIN GI'S

The Gettysburg United Service Organizations Committee needs more Adams County families who will volunteer to provide a meal for soldiers of the Fifth Division Saturday evening, July 4, following the Fourth of July parade here, Dean W. E. Tilberg said today.

Three regiments and the Fifth Division Band, making a total of 824 men, under the command of Maj. Gen. George B. Barth, now stationed at Indianapolis Gap, will make what will probably be their final public appearance before the military post is closed when they participate in what is expected to be the biggest Fourth of July parade in the history of Gettysburg.

The USO is in charge of arrangements for feeding these 824 men following the parade, the concert by the Fifth Division Band and an address by General Barth at the Recreation Park.

93 Invited Thus Far

Application forms, which persons who will volunteer to entertain at least two soldiers are asked to fill out, may be obtained at the information booth on Lincoln Square, at the YWCA, or at most of the clubs. Forms have also been distributed to the churches and special appeals will be made at Sunday services.

Dean Tilberg said today that the deadline for returning the application forms is Saturday, although those who respond to the appeal from the churches on Sunday will also be accepted.

"We need more persons who are willing to provide a meal for these men of the armed forces who are coming here Saturday to march in our parade and help us have a more impressive anniversary observance," he said.

He said thus far only enough invitations have been received by the USO to feed 93 of the 824 soldiers. One Gettysburg restaurant has volunteered to provide meals for 30.

"We Want To Decide Our Fate By Our Own Hands; We Want To Fight Until Death" Says Rhee

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
SEOUL (U-P)—President Syngman Rhee today told half a million cheering people massed in Seoul's streets that a truce "must meet South Korean demands or else "we just simply ask to be allowed to decide our own fate by our own hands."

"We want to fight until death," he said.

Victory shouts of "Monsei" acclaimed the 78-year-old leader on his third public appearance since he upset a truce by freeing 27,000 anti-Red Korean prisoners.

Here and in shell-shattered cities throughout South Korea, crowds totaling a million or more held massive but orderly demonstrations called by the government.

Says Ike Is Wrong

In Pusan, Provincial Gov. Young Song Bong said President Eisenhower was wrong in agreeing to a truce line short of the Manchurian border.

In Seoul, under the bristling muzzles of machine guns, Rhee stood for 45 minutes in a boiling sun on the steps of the war-scarred Capitol justifying his views. The crowd thundered its approval when he told of freeing the anti-Red prisoners, an act which halted a truce even the Reds had said might be signed today.

The machine guns on the roof were to guard the white-haired Rhee against any repetition of the attempt last anniversary to assassinate him. But they were not needed.

Rhee repeated to the crowd jamming the streets before the Capitol as far as the eye could see the three demands he has been making for inclusion in a truce:

Reds Must Leave

1. The war must resume if a post-armistice conference fails in 90 days to reach agreement.

2. The U. S. must give South Korea a mutual security pact, guaranteeing military aid "when ever Korea is invaded again."

3. "The Chinese Communist troops and the United Nations forces simultaneously withdraw from Korea."

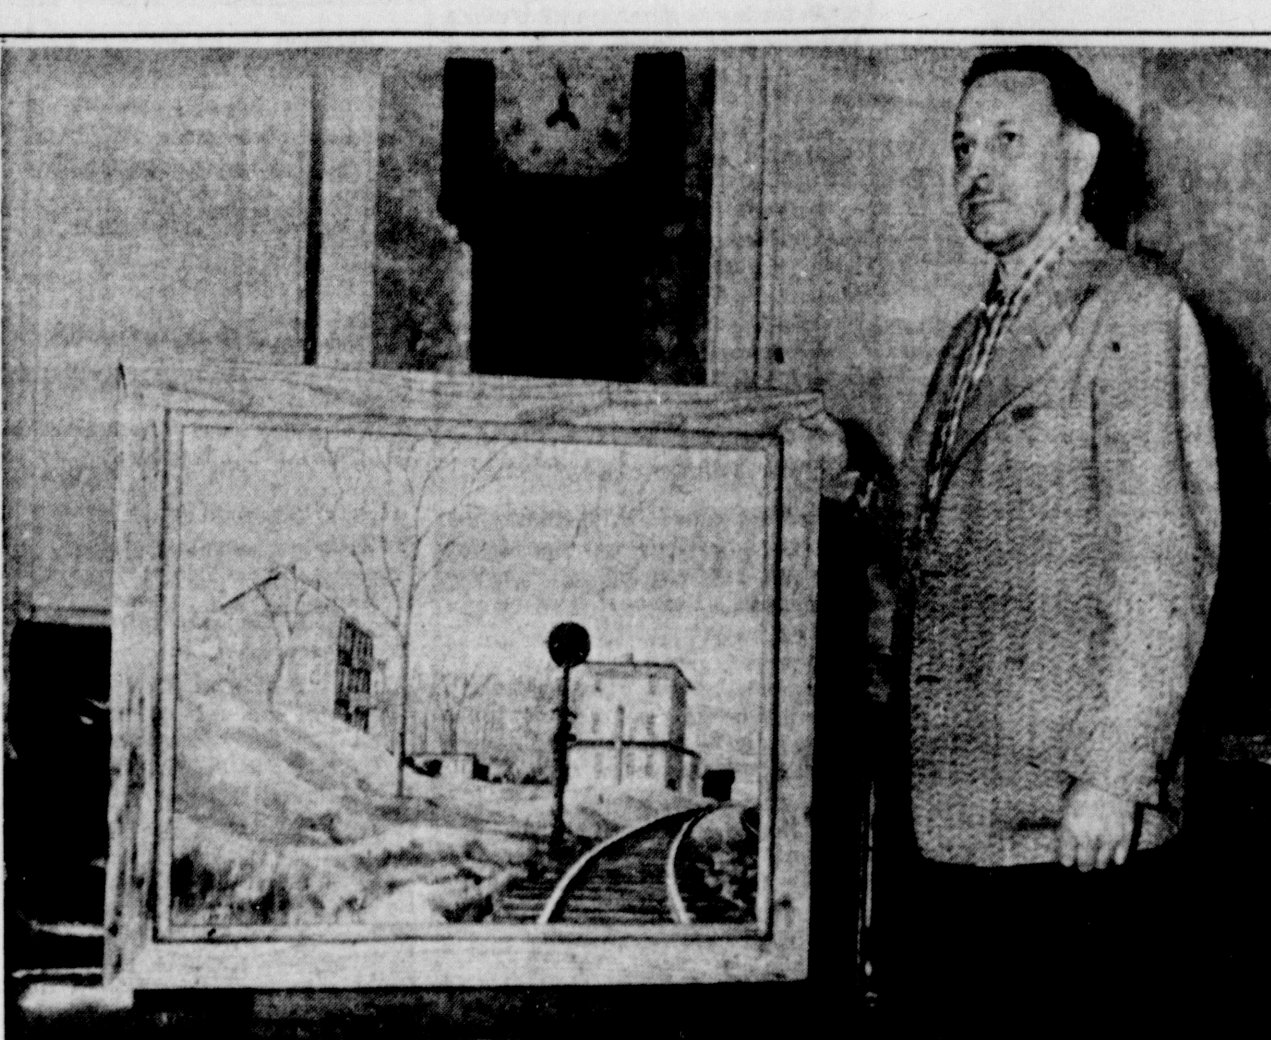

In an emotion-choked voice, Rhee said over loudspeakers that so far there had been no official response to his demands and "our hopes are almost gone."

But he said South Korea, if denied the demands, should be accorded recourse to independent action.

MAN WANTED HERE LOCATED IN TEXAS PEN

Jack Emory Ward, a "graduate" of Adams County, is now in prison and apparently will remain there for some time, according to information received by local officials when they lodged a detainer against him for burglary and larceny in this county.

Ward, aged about 30, was a member of a magazine subscription crew here in 1947. One day he took a taxi to the cabin at the Peace Light Inn where the crew was staying, gathered up some $300 worth of clothing and other articles and disappeared, according to local state police.

When next heard from Ward was in a jail in the south and a detainer from Adams County was lodged. When Ward was eligible for parole there, the authorities notified District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter here, and suggested that the detainer be withdrawn on condition that part of the parole there be that Ward make restitution for what he had taken from the cabin here and pay the costs in the burglary and larceny case brought against him before Justice of the Peace John H. Bashore. The detainer was withdrawn.

Partial Restitutions

Ward made restitution for some of the articles, local officials said. The prosecutor received about $150 for the articles owned by him.

When the costs were not paid, however, the county started checking again. This time they found Ward in the Federal Correctional Institution at Texarkana, Texas, serving a term on a post office burglary charge in Tyler, Texas, where he was said to have been captured by a woman deputy sheriff.

They also learned that he is wanted for a number of burglaries in the Erie section of Pennsylvania and for post office burglaries.

County officials lodged a detainer on the original charge here with the Texas penitentiary warden.

CALL MEETINGS FOR SPOTTERS

Two community meetings to establish air raid warning posts in the Fairfield and New Oxford areas were announced today by Crosby N. Hartzell, chief of the spotter post network in the county.

The Fairfield meeting will be held in the elementary school building at 8 o'clock Friday evening. Hartzell has asked residents of the Fairfield, Zora, Mt. Hope, Orrtanna, Cashtown, McKnightstown, Fountaldale, Greenstone and Virginia Mills sections to attend the meeting at which plans will be outlined for setting up spotter stations.

The New Oxford area session will be held at the Community Hall Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock for residents of the New Oxford, Brushtown, Irishtown, Conewago, McSherrystown, Midway, Abbotstown, East Berlin, Hampton and New Chester areas, at which plans will be discussed for establishing spotter stations in that section.

Six stations will be needed throughout Adams County, Hartzell said, to be located approximately eight miles apart.

The net-work is needed because radar cannot disclose low flying airplanes.

SPOTTERS FOR SIX STATIONS BEING SOUGHT

Recruitment of spotters to man the six spotting stations for the air raid warning net in Adams County got under way today. The stations will be located in Biglerville, Littlestown, York Springs, Fairfield, New Oxford and Gettysburg. Crosby Hartzell, chief county spotter, said that "the more volunteers that come forth the less burden there will be on any one volunteer. Under the schedules now arranged women spotters will work three-hour shifts during the day while the men are scheduled for four-hour shifts during the night. One shift a week will be the maximum for any one spotter with the possibility of this being reduced to one shift a month if enough volunteers come forth."

Coupon Is Available

For those who wish to volunteer a special coupon is published on Page 6 of today's edition of The Times. Those willing to serve are asked to fill it out and mail to the address appearing on the bottom of the coupon.

"This is an essential community service," Hartzell said. "An enemy plane whose flight can be plotted by volunteer watchers throughout the country can be destroyed before it can drop its bombs. Watching the skies can save lives. Adams County is called upon to do her part."

Sites for the six spotter stations are being considered. They will be built so as to give protection to the observer in all kinds of weather with light, heat and telephone service. The locations will be announced as soon as they are determined.

MAN INJURED IN COLLISION

James R. Shannon, 46, of Arlington, Va., was brought to the Warner Hospital Wednesday afternoon for treatment of a lacerated right knee and forehead suffered in an automobile-truck accident at 12:20 p.m. on the Lincoln Highway five and a half miles east of Gettysburg, according to state police of the Gettysburg substation.

Shannon was a passenger in an automobile operated by William Thomas Patrick Shea, 26, of Arlington, which was involved in a collision with a tractor-trailer owned by the Lamond Terra Cotta Works, Underwood, N. C. and driven by John H. Smith, 28, of Gaithersburg, Md.

Police said the tractor-trailer was making a left turn into a private driveway. Shea attempted to pass and struck the truck. Damage to Shea's car was estimated at $50. The damage to the truck was placed at $15. Shannon was brought to the hospital in the New Oxford ambulance.

The automobile of Preston J. Sanders, 25, of Iron Springs R. 1, ran into the rear of a car driven by Gerald Descheemaeker, 42, of 209 Frederick St., Hanover, police said, as Descheemaeker slowed when a truck back of Sanders blew its horn. Damage to the Sanders car was estimated at $75 and to the Descheemaeker car at $65. No one was injured.

Ike Sends Emissary To Urge Syngman Rhee To Support U.N. Plan For Armistice In Korea

SEOUL (U-P)—A personal representative of President Eisenhower arrived in Seoul today with an urgent, secret message aimed at winning President Syngman Rhee over to a quick truce on Allied terms.

The U. S. State Department's Far East chief, Walter S. Robertson, will meet Rhee tomorrow in a critical face-to-face talk that may be a showdown between South Korea and its biggest ally, the United States.

Robertson arrived just after Rhee demanded a "showdown with the Communists now" as he spoke from the Capitol, echoed by the cheers of a half-million South Koreans. Rhee again demanded unification of North and South Korea by treaty or by guns and refused any armistice without it.

Hope For Agreement

Although Rhee's speech showed no hint of a change in his policy, both Rhee and Robertson, earlier expressed hope their crucial face-to-face meeting could find a way

EDUCATORS END SESSION; THINK BASIC STUDIES NEED STRESSING

Sixty-five secondary school officials Wednesday afternoon completed their ninth annual summer conference at Gettysburg College under arrangements with the National Association of Secondary School Principals and immediately voted for a tenth conference, to be held next June 14, 15 and 16.

The three-day sessions on "Re-evaluation and Re-Study of the Purposes, Function, Organization, Program and Pupil Growth of the Secondary School" led the educators to conclude that "the schools are doing fairly well—but."

Dr. William O. Duck, director of guidance at Gettysburg College, who summed up the entire meeting at the concluding session in Weidensall Hall Wednesday afternoon, observed: "In general the consultants who spoke to us seemed to find the schools on the whole pretty good. I had expected more adverse criticism."

"There was considerable agreement on those 'buts.' They stressed the fact that many students lack some of the basic skills in the degree we think they should have. And that is a common criticism. There is only one point that was not mentioned, and should be—that nearly all students today continue on through the schools. In the 'good old days' only the fittest survived, and thus only the best students were high school graduates."

Average Is Better

"I think statistics show that the average student today is a little better than the average of a generation ago; and the good students are far superior. But today we have more poor students, because a generation ago the poor student did (Continued on Page 4)

Korean War In Fourth Year

SEOUL, (P)—The Chinese Communists threw 9,000 men tonight into bloody attack along the front on the third anniversary of the Korean War.

The attacks, breaking a day-long lull, hit on the Western Front along the road to Seoul, and on the East Central Front.

SEOUL (P)—Patrols skirmished briefly along the muddy Korean battlefield and Communist loudspeakers blared new predictions of an imminent truce today as the war entered its fourth year.

The commander of Far East Air Forces, Gen. O. P. Weyland, said Allied warplanes have destroyed "the war-making potential" of the Communists in North Korea.

Weyland apparently referred to the destruction of Communist war plants in North Korea. Red Armies in Korea still are supplied from Manchuria and Russia.

In a statement issued from his Tokyo headquarters, Weyland said 950 Communist planes—including 779 swift MIG jets—have been shot down in aerial battles since June 25, 1950. The Allies have lost 973 planes, 108 to red warplanes, 661 to ground fire and 204 to unknown causes—usually engine trouble.

The Air Force also claimed its planes have destroyed in three years 20,211 Communist trucks, 10,212 railroad cars, 1,049 bridges and 1,291 tanks.

Allied forces were braced for a major Red attack Thursday, the war's third anniversary, but Communist troops stayed in their rain-soaked bunkers.

Police said the accident occurred as the truck was backing into a platform at the Musselman plant. Rinehart's car was parked. Police said the truck driver did not know until notified later that he had struck Rinehart's car. Damage was estimated at $15.

ASK CONGRESS TO SAFEGUARD LIVING LEVELS

HARRISBURG (P)—A resolution urging Congress to make certain "adequate safeguards" for the American standard of living are provided in tariff and trade legislation won approval in the Senate today.

Seven Democrats opposed passage of the resolution which was sent to the House to complete legislative approval.

"It is very unfair to ask us to vote on a matter that has taken up months of debate in Congress," said Sen. Elmer J. Holland (D-Allegheny). "There isn't one of us who knows this matter thoroughly."

Sen. Joseph M. Barr (D-Allegheny) asserted that the Senate was "going pretty far afield in getting into the field of foreign affairs when we can't even settle our own affairs."

Other Democrats opposing the resolution, approved by a 35-7 vote, were Sens. Peter J. Cameli (Philadelphia), George M. Leader (York), Bernard J. McGinnis (Allegheny) and Frank W. Ruth (Berks).

Sponsors of the resolution are Sens. A. H. Lettler (R-Clearfield) and Murray Peelor (R-Indiana).

nothing of the impending accident until they felt the brakes applied. They were Conductor James W. Cameron, 38, of 101 Bryan Place, Hagerstown; Flagman Thomas D. Porney, 54, of 126 High St., Hagerstown, and brakeman Byron Curtis Bender, 47, of 708 George St., Hagerstown.

Crew members said they ran back after the train was stopped, and picked up Repine's body. They then used a railroad telephone in the west yards to call the dispatcher in Gettysburg and summon the Warner Hospital ambulance. Repine died shortly after he reached the hospital.

Cpl. Yercavage said efforts were being made to trace Repine's movements prior to the accident and to learn, if possible, where he obtained the pillow, pillowcase and a bedspread on which his head was lying. His mother, Mrs. Pauline Repine, Indiana R. D., said he did not have them when he left home at 10 a.m. Monday to take money to a sister at Mont Alto Sanatorium.

PACKAGE DEAL
NORFOLK, Neb. (P)—Mrs. Donald Spiedel was a little more discouraged than most mothers when her 7-year-old son, Douglas, came down with scarlet fever.

Before the scarlet fever Douglas had had mumps, and before that chickenpox, and before that influenza, with a week between each for a brief re-acquaintance with school.

Besides that, by the time Douglas got around to scarlet fever, his mother had the mumps.

It would be difficult to operate today's automobiles on the type of a gasoline which was produced 25 years ago.

Red Radio Reports Chinese Famine

HONG KONG (P)—The Chinese Communist radio at Chungking says the farmers in a huge rice area in Szechwan province are conquering a "serious spring famine."

The area, bound by the Yangtze and Kialing rivers and the towns of Chungking, Wanhsien and Paoning, is triangular shaped and is about 200 miles deep and 300 miles across at its base, the radio said. The broadcast referred to it as a "disaster area" but said the peak of the famine had passed.

A deed filed with the county register and recorder, reveals the transfer of the Arendtsville fruit laboratories and experimental orchards from the South Mountain Fruit Research Laboratories, Inc., a corporation set up to purchase the lands, to Pennsylvania State College.

SALISBURY, Md. (P)—Add traffic signs to your list of unusual traffic hazards. That's the way Mayor Rollie W. Hastings saw it when he announced a "stop" sign would be removed from a down town intersection. He made the decision after complaints the sign was so big motorists couldn't see approaching traffic.

Here And There News Collected At Random

Seymour Taylor has some good advice for motorists who are now taking to the highways in the thousands on their vacations. He says it in the following poem:

If everyone who drives a car
Could lie a month in bed,
With broken bones and stitched up wounds
Or fractures of the head.
And there endure the agonies
That many people do,
They'd never need preach safety
Any more to me or you.

If everyone could stand beside
The bed of some close friend,
And hear the Doctor say "No Hope"
Before that fatal end.
And see him there unconscious
Never knowing what took place,
The laws and rules of traffic
I am sure we'd soon embrace.

If everyone could meet
The wife and children left behind,
And step into the darkened home
Where once the sunlight shined,
And look upon the vacant chair
Where Daddy used to sit,
I'm sure each reckless driver
Would be forced to think a bit.

If everyone who takes the wheel
Would say a little prayer,
And keep in mind those in the car
Depending on his care,
And make a vow and pledge himself
To never take a chance,
The Great Crusade for Safety
Would suddenly advance.

George Matthew Adams, who writes a daily piece for The Gettysburg Times, recently wrote a splendid tribute to dogs. Here it is:

The heroism, courage and intelligence of these dumb friends of ours are beyond praise in adequate fashion. Their only thought is to serve their master or friend—and they will do it at all costs—even at the risk, or giving, of their very lives.

And what playful, joyful companions our dogs are! They are never so happy as when their master's mood is in tune with theirs. They will follow him anywhere. Read John Muir's beautiful story "Stickeen" and you will get an example. No honesty is quite so genuine as that of a dog's. He will scent deceit as quickly as he will the scent of some wild objective. And he is one of the most forgiving beasts known. He will take abuse, and even cruelty, in its stride, and come back at a genuine beck of love—but his memory is long, and scars stay in his heart.

The dog is the child's best and truest friend. Many a dog has sacrificed his life that a child might live. All children who have a dog should be told of the faithfulness and loyalty of their friend, and admonished never to be unkind to him. He will reward this consideration with extra love and protective zeal. He is the ever watchful policeman of the home.

A dog should never be punished except with kindly words—something that we humans fail so often to do. He is more understanding than any of us know. He is one of the most sensitive of beasts. He looks you straight in the eye when you talk to him. He has a most distinctive language, but it is a silent one. And the first letter in his language is that of love. Love, loyalty and devotion might be said to be the first three letters in his language of understanding.

Ah, the errands that our dogs run! In both war and peace it is the same with them. In dangerous mountain passes, thick with snow, or in pastures green, where the stock feeds and flowers grow. His home and world are where there is some service to perform. "Faithful unto death" can well be applied to him, and deservedly so. He is selfless. And his grief at the loss of his best friend is boundless and unappeased. Often he has died upon the grave of his master.

Is there room in Heaven for him? I would say—yes! A little 12-year-old boy once wrote that God named him in the first place merely by spelling His name backwards! I know one thing—I would feel lonesome without this best of friends in the same Heaven where all my loved ones would be, should I be there!

Littlestown Council Votes To Add 12 More Parking Meters, East Section Of King Street

Twelve additional parking meters will be purchased for installation on E. King St., it was decided at the June meeting of the Littlestown Borough Council, Tuesday evening in the borough secretary's office, N. Queen St. The meters will be placed on E. King St. at the east end of those now in operation, on both sides of the street, east to Maple Ave. Discussion on making some of the meters five-cent only took place, but no action was taken.

Roscoe W. Rittase, president, presided. Secretary Roger J. Keefer read his monthly report. Councilman Charles M. Frock, chairman of the street committee, informed council that the members of his committee had toured Lumber St. with Wilson Utz, Taneytown contractor, and had agreed upon taking some water table out on both sides of the street where the street was tilted and higher than the roadbed. The contractor presented the committee with a price for the labor and necessary equipment for resurfacing the street. Council discussed whether bids should be sought. Secretary Keefer told Council that he had received a sealed bid from Joseph Rife, Hanover. The secretary was authorized to advertise for sealed bids.

Storm Sewer Complaints
Councilman Frock said he had received complaints relative to the storm sewer drops along N. and S. Queen St. being filled with sanitary water and not functioning properly.

Secretary Keefer was instructed to obtain information from J. W. Kendelhart Jr., superintendent of highways.

Water permits were issued to the following: Clinton R. Wintrod, 22 Carroll St.; George W. Gorden, 138 Lumber St. (former Horace K. Rineman property); Walter C. Myers, 101 Windsor St.; Leroy J. Helwig, 101 M St., service connection for 19 Rita Marie Ave.

Water Supply Up To Plants
Secretary Keefer reported communications received from the Carroll Rubber Co. and the Windsor Shoe Co., Inc. relative to the water pressure, and that letters were sent to the industries explaining the completion of constructing water mains tying in all dead-ends to better the water service in this area. Reports submitted by the industries indicated that tests made by insurance inspectors at the fire hydrants within the area showed there was a 70 per cent deficiency as to supply and they would be rated accordingly for insurance purposes. One industry agreed that the water supply was sufficient, while the other said that the supply for general use was adequate but not adequate for fire protection and their only alternative was to install a sprinkler tank.

The secretary said he informed this plant that the Authority Board owned the borough water system and its operation by the borough is under a lease agreement with the Board. Council decided to notify the industries that the ordinance states that the costs of installing a larger main for industrial fire protection must be borne by the industries, and it would probably be cheaper to lay a larger main than for each to install sprinkler tanks.

Building Permits
Building permits were issued to the following: Edward H. Brown, 3 W. King St., repair porch roof; Charles A. Hofs, 121 E. King St., excavate and construct one-story brick cased, composition roof dwelling for Donald C. Sheely at 345 W. Myrtle St.; J. Ray Rein-dollar, 317 Lumber St., to paint and repair two story frame dwelling; Mrs. Mary S. Rebert, 228 M St., to paint and repair two story frame dwelling; Harry B. Long, 66 Crouse Park, to make general repairs to two story frame dwelling and sidewalk; Lester W. Harner, 103 Charles St., to excavate and construct sidewalk and curb at 103-105 Charles St.; LeRoy J. Helwig, 101 M St., to excavate and construct a one and one half story brick cased, composition roof dwelling at 19 Rita Marie Ave.; Miss Florence V. Sell, 214 E. King St., to paint and repair two story double frame dwelling at 214-216 E. King St.; Wilbur C. Reck, 60 E. Myrtle St., to paint and repair one and one-half story brick cased dwelling; James M. Herring, 28 N. Queen St., to paint and repair two-story brick dwelling and frame barn in rear of 28 N. Queen St.; J. Frank Keith, Littlestown, R. 2, to paint and repair two-and-one-half story frame double dwelling for Harvey A. Stonessifer, 401-403 S. Queen St.

Last Home Connected
Council instructed Councilman Frock, chairman of the Street Committee, to inform the street commissioner to install "No Parking Here To Corner" sign on E. King St. in front of the post office, where the present sign, which reads "Parking Only For Public Business," is to be removed. The Safety Committee reported that arrangements had been completed for the "lone dwelling" to be connected to the sanitary sewer system, which, when completed, will represent 100 per cent usable properties connected to the sewer system.

Stanley S. Horner, 252 M St., appeared before council relative to his sanitary sewer lateral being closed. He said he thought a broken tile to an armistice in this war-ravaged country.

Robertson told newsmen: "I am still hopeful that I will be able to remove all misunderstandings and differences that stand in the way of peace."

And Rhee himself said Robertson's visit may open "new channels" for a solution.

The armistice talks themselves remained suspended until the Allies answer a violent Red protest over Rhee's release of the 27,000 POWs. There was no indication when the next meeting would be called.

Stop Red Aggression
Meanwhile, Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. commander, said in Tokyo the Allies have achieved their avowed purpose by stopping Red aggression and pushing the Communists back across the 38th Parallel, the jumpoff point of three years ago.

In an anniversary message to the U. N. Command, Clark said the ultimate goal remains: "An honorable armistice, followed by the peaceful unification of Korea."

Rhee has said the Allies agreed to unify Korea and drive out the Reds, but top Allied statesmen disagree, holding to Clark's statement.

In Seoul, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U. S. Eighth Army commander, said in an anniversary message that American and other U. N. soldiers have "no thought of separating from the Republic of Korea forces."

May Withdraw Army
Rhee has written Clark that he would rank his 16 divisions from U. N. Command rather than agree to a truce on present terms, but he said he would advise Clark before doing so.

Rhee's determination to fight on alone was pointed up strongly in the letter to Clark and in his formation of a "war cabinet" in case the UNC signs an armistice over South Korea's protest.

Briggs declined an invitation to the Seoul rally. He was said to have informed the government he could not be present at a rally demanding unification by force rather than peaceful means.

The playground for the past week showed a decrease in daily attendance. The Girl Scout Day Camp is given as one reason for fewer children participating in the program. The boys and girls are urged to attend as they did during the first week.

During the morning session, the children have been busy making Indian shields out of cardboard donated by the Windsor Shoe Co., Inc., and rubber given by R. L. Crouse and Son. Dean Shorb and Jimmy Mummert received honorable mention for shields. In the afternoon, the older boys and girls have continued to work with the plaster of Paris molds, and Indian shields.

Yanks Look Like Anything But Champs As They Drop Pair To White Sox; Meet Indians Next

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

After watching the New York Yankees blow two in a row to the bustling Chicago White Sox about the only conclusion you can come to is that somehow the players put on the wrong uniforms.

Certainly the outfit that wore the big "NY" on their suits the past two days bears no resemblance to a world championship club. And the White Sox look every inch pennant contenders instead of third-place team.

The Sox not only have gained a 6-4 season's edge over the vaunted Yankees. They've succeeded in making the New Yorkers beat themselves. In Tuesday night's 11-3 rout the Yanks committed four errors, three of them in a single inning. Both were high marks for the year.

Faulty Pitching
Yesterday it was faulty pitching. Starter Jim McDonald found the plate only once in 13 pitches and was sent to the showers in the first inning with the bases loaded and nobody out.

Chicago cashed all three of those runners, plus two more in the inning, and coasted to an 8-4 victory.

So the Sox have proved that even the mighty Yankees are only human and that despite their tremendous 10-game bulge over second-place Cleveland, the New Yorkers aren't quite home safe yet.

Since the St. Louis Browns snapped their 18-game winning streak, the Yankees have played only 500 ball, winning five and losing five on the present home stand.

Braves Lose Third
The New Yorkers might be more worried if somebody besides their Indian cousins from Cleveland were coming to visit this week end. Cleveland has lost seven straight to New York and is the only team in the league that hasn't beaten the Yankees at least once.

The Indians came out on top in a 31-hit slugfest at Boston yesterday, whipping the Red Sox, 13-9. St. Louis scored five runs in the last two innings to edge Washington, 7-6 and Detroit won its third straight, 6-3, over Philadelphia.

The suddenly docile Milwaukee Braves lost their third in a row, 10-1, to Pittsburgh, but maintained their three-game league lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Dodgers were beaten, 7-4, by Cincinnati when Gus Bell homered with two on in the last of the ninth.

Phillies Over Cubs
New York whipped St. Louis, 3-0, as Sal Maglie scattered eight hits and Philadelphia won its 10th game of the season from Chicago, 6-2.

Jim Hegan, Dale Mitchell and Bob Avila each contributed three safeties to the 17-hit Cleveland attack. Mitchell drove in four runs as did Del Wilbur and Tom Umpsett of the Red Sox. Wilbur homered with two on in the seventh for Boston.

Home runs by Roy Sievers and Dick Kokos enabled the Browns to make it two straight over Washington.

The Tigers jumped on Charlie Bishop for four runs in the first inning, including a home run by Steve Souchock. Shortstop Harvey Kuenn contributed three straight hits, one a home run, for Detroit. Ned Garver went all the way for his sixth victory. He's lost six.

The slumping Braves managed only seven hits, six of them singles, against the right-handed slants of Roy Face, pint-sized rookie curveballer who posted his third victory without a loss for Pittsburgh. The Pirates climbed out of last place with a 15-hit attack against four Milwaukee pitchers.

Score On Home Runs

Bell's blast for Cincinnati climaxed a long uphill struggle after Brooklyn had scored four times in the first inning on home runs by Wayne Belardi and Gil Hodges.

Fine pitching by Maglie halted the Cardinals for only the third time in their last 15 starts. The New York ace had runners on base in almost every inning but nobody got past second. Wilmer Mizell was the loser.

The Phillies pounded Chicago pitching for a dozen hits, seven of them for extra bases while Karl Drews held the Cubs scoreless until the ninth. The loss dropped the Cubs back into the cellar.

SOFTBALL GAME CANCELLED
The softball game previously announced for Saturday evening between the Moose and Cleveland Brothers, Harrisburg, has been cancelled due to work to be done on the field in preparation for the Gettysburg firemen's carnival.

Snead Is Favored In $15,000 Tourney

CLEVELAND (AP)—Despite an injured hand, Sammy Snead was a red hot favorite today as 118 professionals and 23 amateurs started a 72-hole, four-day scramble for a $15,000 purse over Manakiki Golf Club's 6651-yard par-72 forest-infested layout.

The long-hitting, drawing West Virginian—just back from a Florida fishing trip—clipped former national public links champion Smiley Quick by two strokes with a 67 in a practice round yesterday and declared he was ready.

Arrayed against Snead, who has won everything except the National Open, is an impressive group of golfing talent.

The field includes such luminaries as former National Open champions Lawson Little, Billy Burke, Cary Middlecoff and Julius Boros.

STARS LOSE IN NCAA TOURNEY

COLORADO SPRINGS (AP)—Eventual winner of the 56th NCAA golf championship was anybody's guess today after both the medalist and the favorite were eliminated in the first round of match play yesterday.

Two 18-hole rounds today and two more tomorrow will trim the field of 32 to the two finalists who will fight it out over the 36-hole route Saturday for the title.

Medalist Merle Backlund of Colorado and favorite Eddie Merrins of Louisiana State were sidetracked yesterday as a wave of upsets swept the 6-622-yard, par 70 course.

Backlund, who qualified with a record-shattering 137, was eliminated by Charles Cassidy of Southern California, 1 up. Cassidy tangled with Larry Harper of Ohio State in the first upper bracket match of today's second round.

Merrins, last year's runnerup, bowed out to Stanford's Fred Brown, 3 and 2. Brown's second-round opponent in the lower bracket is Paul Kelley of Rutgers.

York Springs Tops Mt. Pleasant 6-2

York Springs gained a 6-2 victory at Mt. Pleasant Wednesday evening in a Bi-County Baseball League game. A home run by George Murtoft with a runner on base in the fourth inning featured for the winners.

Shell Diving In Tahiti Prohibited
PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP)—The current diving season in the pearl-shell atolls of the Tuamotu Archipelago is to be the last for an undetermined number of years. The lagoons will be closed to prevent propagation of new varieties of mother-of-pearl oysters.

The native shell is the black-lip variety, now sadly depleted. Scientists of the French Colonial Government are reported considering introduction of the regal gold-lip shell from the Solomonos, or perhaps the multi-colored types found in the Persian Gulf.

Three former Michigan State NCAA boxing champions are now fighting professionally—heavyweight Chuck Speiser and welterweights Chuck Davey and Jed Black.

A home run to right field by Bob Redding on the first pitched ball in the last of the seventh inning gave the Eagles an 11-10 victory over the Elks Wednesday evening in the opening Softball League game. The victory enabled the Eagles to move out of the cellar and pushed the Elks into last place.

The Eagles led 10-9 after six frames but the Elks knotted the score in the top of the final inning. After Jim Codori had fled out, Williams walked and stole second. He advanced on Gilbert's ground out and scored on Rick Codori's single.

Yarmark capped a triple and three doubles, scored three runs and batted in three more in leading the Eagles' attack. Bobby Rohrbaugh and Ed Carbaugh, Elks' outfielders, collided in the first frame, and Rohrbaugh was forced out of the game. He was taken to the Warner Hospital where examination revealed he was only shaken up.

Clarence Dorm pitched his best game of the season as the VFW drubbed the Glenn L. Bream garage-men 11-5 in the second game. Dorm allowed but four hits, two each by Kennell and G. Kitzmiller, and fanned seven batsmen.

Only one game will be played Friday evening, the Glenn L. Bream garage meeting the Lentz Legion at 8 o'clock. The Eagles and VFW, by agreement, decided to postpone their scheduled game due to conflicting circumstances.

"WET WATER" IS USED TO PUT OUT STUBBORN FIRE
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A one-two punch composed of a new type fire apparatus and a new chemical "wet water" quelled a stubborn crude rubber fire that had burned here for two days.

After watching the new chemical tame the fire in a little more than two hours yesterday, Fire Chief George E. Hink termed its use "a new episode" in local firefighting history.

Monday, a five-story warehouse holding government stockpiles of crude rubber erupted into a seven-alarm blaze. It burned steadily since then, resisting all known methods of extinguishing fires, Hink said.

The use of the chemical was suggested by Henry D. Gordon and his brother, Michael F., engineers of the Central Supply Equipment Co., local representatives of the Rockwood Sprinkler Co.

Is More Effective
Hink accepted the suggestion and the brothers had the chemical shipped here from the Rockwood plants at Worcester, Mass., and Linden, N. J.

Ordinary water, Hink said, has a tendency to disperse into tiny globules as it falls. The addition of the new liquid, he said, "breaks down the surface tension, allowing the water to get to the seat of the blaze."

Another feature of the chemical, the Gordon brothers said, is its power to hold water on the burning material longer than ordinary water would remain before turning to steam.

The department's new "Special Service 100" wagon was used to handle the chemical and mix it with water. The fire department, with the aid of engineers, designed the apparatus to handle chemicals. It is said to be the first of its type in the world.

The "wet water" was sprayed on the fire through a special nozzle on the wagon.

Jim Hegan, Dale Mitchell and Bob Avila each contributed three safeties to the 17-hit Cleveland attack. Mitchell drove in four runs as did Del Wilbur and Tom Umphlett of the Red Sox. Wilbur homered with two on in the seventh for Boston.

Home runs by Roy Sievers and Dick Kokos enabled the Browns to make it two straight over Washington.

The Tigers jumped on Charlie Bishop for four runs in the first inning, including a home run by Steve Souchock. Shortstop Harvey Kuenn contributed three straight hits, one a home run, for Detroit. Ned Garver went all the way for his sixth victory. He's lost six.

The slumping Braves managed only seven hits, six of them singles, against the right-handed slants of Roy Face, pint-sized rookie curveballer who posted his third victory without a loss for Pittsburgh. The Pirates climbed out of last place with a 15-hit attack against four Milwaukee pitchers.

Score On Home Runs

Bell's blast for Cincinnati climaxed a long uphill struggle after Brooklyn had scored four times in the first inning on home runs by Wayne Belardi and Gil Hodges. Fine pitching by Maglie halted the Cardinals for only the third time in their last 15 starts. The New York ace had runners on base in almost every inning but nobody got past second. Wilmer Mizell was the loser.

The Phillies pounded Chicago pitching for a dozen hits, seven of them for extra bases while Karl Drews held the Cubs scoreless until the ninth. The loss dropped the Cubs back into the cellar.

SOFTBALL GAME CANCELLED

The softball game previously announced for Saturday evening between the Moose and Cleveland Brothers, Harrisburg, has been cancelled due to work to be done on the field in preparation for the Gettysburg firemen's carnival.

Snead Is Favored In $15,000 Tourney

CLEVELAND (P)—Despite an injured hand, Sammy Snead was a red hot favorite today as 118 professionals and 23 amateurs started a 72-hole, four-day scramble for a $15,000 purse over Manakiki Golf Club's 6651-yard par-72 forest-infested layout.

The long-hitting, drawing West Virginian—just back from a Florida fishing trip—clipped former national public links champion Smiley Quick by two strokes with a 67 in a practice round yesterday and declared he was ready.

Arrayed against Snead, who has won everything except the National Open, is an impressive group of golfing talent.

The field includes such luminaries as former National Open champions Lawson Little, Billy Burke, Cary Middlecoff and Julius Boros.

STARS LOSE IN NCAA TOURNEY

COLORADO SPRINGS (P)—Eventual winner of the 56th NCAA golf championship was anybody's guess today after both the medalist and the favorite were eliminated in the first round of match play yesterday.

Two 18-hole rounds today and two more tomorrow will trim the field of 32 to the two finalists who will fight it out over the 36-hole route Saturday for the title.

Medalist Merle Backlund of Colorado and favorite Eddie Merrins of Louisiana State were sidelined yesterday as a wave of upsets swept the 6-622-yard, par 70-course.

Backlund, who qualified with a record-shattering 137, was eliminated by Charles Cassidy of Southern California, 1 up. Cassidy tangled with Larry Harper of Ohio State in the first upper bracket match of today's second round.

Merrins, last year's runnerup, bowed out to Stanford's Fred Brown, 3 and 2. Brown's second-round opponent in the lower bracket is Paul Kelley of Rutgers.

York Springs Tops Mt. Pleasant 6-2

York Springs gained a 6-2 victory at Mt. Pleasant Wednesday evening in a Bi-Country Baseball League game. A home run by George Murttoff with a runner on base in the fourth inning featured for the winners.

Score by innings:

York Springs	0	0	0	3	0	2	1	—
Mt. Pleasant	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	—

Batteries: York Springs, Hardy and Warner; Mt. Pleasant, Hershey and Weller.

In other games Lisburn blanked Centerville 8-0 and White Hall defeated the Blue Raiders 5-3. Plainfield received credit for a forfeit from New Kingston.

OCEANPORT, N. J.—Thasian Hero ($5.80) set a new track record of 1:37.1 for the mile in winning the first half of the $15,000 Longfellow Handicap at Monmouth Park. Euclid ($12.60) took the second division.

Shell Diving In Tahiti Prohibited

PAPEETE, Tahiti (P)—The current diving season in the pearl-shell atolls of the Tuamotu Archipelago is to be the last for an undetermined number of years.

The lagoons will be closed to permit propagation of new varieties of mother-of-pearl oysters.

The native shell is the black-lip variety, now sadly depleted. Scientists of the French Colonial Government are reported considering introduction of the regal gold-lip shell from the Solomonos, or perhaps the multi-colored types found in the Persian Gulf.

Three former Michigan State NCAA boxing champions are now fighting professionally—heavyweight Chuck Speiser and welterweights Chuck Davey and Jed Black.

A home run to right field by Bob Redding on the first pitched ball in the last of the seventh inning gave the Eagles an 11-10 victory over the Elks Wednesday evening in the opening Softball League game. The victory enabled the Eagles to move out of the cellar and pushed the Elks into last place.

The Eagles led 10-9 after six frames but the Elks knotted the score in the top of the final inning. After Jim Codori had fled out, Williams walked and stole second. He advanced on Gilbert's ground out and scored on Rick Codori's single.

Yarmark rapped a triple and three doubles, scored three runs and batted in three more in leading the Eagles' attack. Bobby Rohrbach and Ed Carbaugh, Elks' outfielders, collided in the first frame and Rohrbach was forced out of the game. He was taken to the Warner Hospital where examination revealed he was only shaken up.

Clarence Dorm pitched his best game of the season as the VFW drubbed the Glenn L. Bream garage 11-5 in the second game. Dorm allowed but four hits, two each by Kennell and G. Kitzmiller, and fanned seven batters.

Only one game will be played Friday evening, the Glenn L. Bream garage meeting the Lentz Legion at 8 o'clock. The Eagles and VFW, by agreement, decided to postpone their scheduled game due to conflicting circumstances.

"WET WATER" IS USED TO PUT OUT STUBBORN FIRE

PHILADELPHIA (P)—A one-two punch composed of a new type fire apparatus and a new chemical "wet water" quelled a stubborn rubber fire that had burned here for two days.

After watching the new chemical tame the fire in a little more than two hours yesterday, Fire Chief George E. Hink termed its use "a new episode" in local firefighting history.

Monday, a five-story warehouse holding government stockpiles of crude rubber erupted into a seven-alarm blaze. It burned steadily since then, resisting all known methods of extinguishing fires, Hink said.

The use of the chemical was suggested by Henry D. Gordon and his brother, Michael F., engineers of the Central Supply Equipment Co., local representatives of the Rockwood Sprinkler Co.

Hink accepted the suggestion and the brothers had the chemical shipped here from the Rockwood plants at Worcester, Mass., and Linden, N. J.

Ordinary water, Hink said, has a tendency to disperse into tiny globules as it falls. The addition of the new liquid, he said, "breaks down the surface tension, allowing the water to get to the seat of the blaze."

YOUTH, 20, GETS 99 YEARS FOR KILLING MAN

COLORADO CITY, Tex. (AP)—A jury last night convicted a young airman of helping murder a service station attendant despite defense arguments the youth's only crime was being "homesick, lonely and drunk."

Joseph Paul Lucas, 20, received a 99-year sentence. The state had asked death.

The jury returned its verdict 5 hours and 32 minutes after receiving the case.

Stabbed And Beaten

Lucas sat stony-faced as the judgment was read. But his father, Joseph Lucas of the little mining town of Tamaqua, Pa., began sobbing uncontrollably. Lucas' mother was not in court at the time.

Lucas and Earl Robertson, Amarillo plumbing company bookkeeper, were charged in the death of Victor G. Smith, who was stabbed and beaten at Amarillo last Jan. 6 in a robbery.

Robertson has received a life sentence.

The defense produced no witnesses. During closing arguments, however, court-appointed defense attorneys pictured Lucas as a sheltered youth who got in wrong company. Lucas was stationed at Amarillo Air Force Base when Smith was slain.

"We are not going to ask you to turn him loose," defense Atty. Johnny Moore of Colorado City told the jury. "But I am going to ask that you consider his age."

Dist. Atty. Hermon Pipkin of Amarillo argued that Lucas stabbed Smith while Robertson beat him with a wrench. Pipkin said Lucas deserved to die.

The state called nine witnesses.

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine has asked the Senate to approve the appointment of Andrew C. Long of Shamokin, as a member of the State Game Commission.

Long would replace Harold Moltz of Williamsport who resigned.

At the same time the governor asked for approval of the reappointment of Malcolm B. Mershon,

Match Warehouse Destroyed By Fire

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP)—Fire, fed by huge stores of matches, wrecked a warehouse last night and did an estimated $300,000 damage.

Firemen battled the blaze at the Ohio Match Company's warehouse for more than an hour before they could put it under control.

Damage to the one-story brick building and equipment was estimated by firemen at $100,000. Some 30,000 cases of matches, valued at $200,000, went up.

Clouds of smoke, visible for miles, spouted from the burning warehouse at 44 Halladay St. The building collapsed shortly after the fire started at about 6 p. m.

Reds Try Incentives To Speed Production

MAIZURU, Japan (AP)—Japanese repatriates from Communist China say the Reds have borrowed an incentive pay system from the Russians to speed up production. The wages are convertible either into cash or tickets for various incentive commodities.

All workers put in an eight-hour day on a five and a half day work-week. One repatriate said he worked on a salary basis on a dairy farm and received $20 a month.

A week's wages, he said, would buy a thin cotton tunic lightly filled with cotton batting and thin cotton pants.

Results Of Three-Year War In Korea Will Not Be Fully Known For Many Years, Says Observer

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Since the Korean War is three years old today this might seem a good time for appraising what has been gained or lost by the United States and United Nations on one side and the Communists on the other.

But any appraisal now can only be temporary even though some results may seem apparent. What seems like positive accomplishments today could be wiped out five years from now without another shot being fired.

For instance, if peace is restored, South Korea through trade and other pressures and relationships with North Korea and China might be infiltrated by Communists who could take over quietly.

At the same time the future may show Korea was the turning point in the Western World's struggle against communism for it was toward the end of the three years that Russia changed tactics and talked peace.

Results Not Known

In short, the full results of the Korean War cannot be known for years. Yet, on a temporary basis only, some things on the credit and debit sides can be pointed to. This country and its Allies in the U. N. have operated in the belief that in the struggle against communism none of them can stand alone, that they must work collectively, and that Communist expansion and aggression must be stopped.

From that view point there can be no doubt the U. N.'s getting into the war accomplished a number of things:

A. It saved the Republic of Korea from being overwhelmed by Communist force.

B. It was a supreme test of the U. N. itself: would it be simply a helpless and ineffective debating society like the League of Nations or was it able and willing to take collective action against aggression? The answer was that it would act.

C. This in turn undoubtedly stiffened the backs of many smaller countries which, unable to match the might of Russia or Communist China, might otherwise have yielded long before now to Communist pressure or threats or direct attack.

D. Judging from what has not happened in the past three years, the Communists were discouraged from committing similar aggressions elsewhere. If they had used Korea as a testing ground to find out how much they could get away with, they found their answer.

E. Fear of what might come next to all of them after the Korean outbreak drove the Western Allies into stepped-up rearmament, giving them a military defense at the end of the three years far greater than they had before Korea.

So much for what the Allies accomplished. But there is a debit side which, except for the lives lost, does not appear on the ledger at the moment as very grave.

Economic Strain

The costs of Korea and rearmament put an economic strain on the Allies. And they developed inner tensions. At the end of three years, seemingly lulled into a feeling of security by Russia's sweet-talk and Russia's failure to make another aggressive move, the Western Allies have slowed down their rearmament.

And some differences, such as in dealing with Russia, have begun to appear among them. Briefly, they began to display, for all to see, a great weariness of war, even in such a small war as Korea where the U. S. bore almost all the burden.

As for the Chinese, while they lost hundreds of thousands of men, they used the war, with Russia's help, to build an impressive military machine which cannot but

Better Living Aim Of Philippine Aid

MANILA (AP)—The director of the U. S. Foreign Aid program in the Philippines says it is aimed at raising living standards and "not on a negative concept of simple being against something, such as Communism."

Dr. Roland Renne, chief of the Mutual Security Agency mission here, told a meeting of educators and college students recently:

"Communism may provide us a momentary rallying point, but only by positive, aggressive action to frighten their Asian neighbors. The Russians, if only because they had to help the Chinese, stepped up their own arms production, found the war a testing ground for weapons, and at the same time lost some ground."

Western Europe, which looked like a pushover any time Russia wanted to move before Korea, is no longer a pushover, or at least as quick a pushover.

PARIS LACKS INSURANCE

PARIS (AP)—When it comes to fires, Parisians prefer to take their chances.

Insurance companies announced that from 1940 through 1952, the number of fires in Paris doubled, advancing from 2,617 per year to 4,509. The companies added that 25 per cent fewer Parisians have fire insurance than in 1914.

There's only one answer...

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!

Fleet operators, farmers, independent truckers—truck users everywhere—buy more Chevrolets than any other make. There can be only one reason for that: Chevrolet trucks offer more of what you want.

As the official registration figures keep rolling in, they keep telling the same positive story about truck popularity and truck value: Again in 1953, for the twelfth straight production year, truck buyers show a clear-cut and decisive preference for Chevrolet trucks.

If you're a truck user, this fact is mighty important to you. Why? Well, as you know, trucks are built and bought for just one reason—to do a job. So isn't it logical then that since Chevrolet trucks outsell all others, they must do a better job at lower cost?

That's why it will pay you to stop in and see us before you buy your next truck.

TIGHT MONEY POLICY EASED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board has suddenly eased its tight money policy in a move it said will help the Treasury meet huge borrowing needs without cutting into the nation's prosperity.

The board announced late yesterday it was lowering the amount of reserves its member banks are required to keep. The action was expected to increase bank lending power by about $5,780,000,000.

A Treasury spokesman said the Treasury estimates it will have to borrow between five and six billion dollars in the next three months, and will announce next week how it will do so.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey said in a statement the Fed-tion" with the Treasury.

He said the board acted independently, but after "full consultation" with the Treasury.

The couple have been living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Fissel, since their marriage last summer.

Mrs. Florence Roland, R. 1, has been entertaining her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Holder, Ft. Worth, Tex. Mrs. Holder was formerly Miss Bernice Roland.

William March, Franklinton, purchased at recent public auction the Charles M. Heiner farm on R. 2. The farm was formerly the property of the late Harry E. Serff, bought by the Heiners when they came here from Port Townsend, Wash. Mr. Heiner has also been working in York.

Car Plunges 300 Feet; Woman Killed

DOWNTOWN, Pa. (AP)—An au- to ran up an embankment on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, then tumbled down a 300-foot bank and overturned, killing 56-year old Mrs. Pauline Sytko of Salem, O., Tuesday.

The driver of the machine, Mrs. Sytko's son, Henry, 27, suffered head injuries. Chester County Coroner Creston I. Shoemaker quoted Sytko as saying he dozed off at the wheel. The two were en route to Philadelphia to visit relatives.

In the early days of oil production, a "gusher" or well which spouted oil all over the neighborhood was hailed as a triumph by a producer, but today, the producer who fails to control the oil coming from a new well considers the result something of a disgrace.

ASSISTANCE IN COUNTY 19 LESS THAN YEAR AGO

The case load for public assistance has decreased slightly, the Adams County Public Assistance Board learned Wednesday evening at a meeting held in the board's offices on N. Washington St.

The total caseload, 544, is 19 less than the total of 563 for June a year ago. The decline is marked in old age assistance and in aid to dependent children. One year ago the case load included 298 old age assistance, 106 blind pensions, 90 aid to dependent children, 33 general assistance and 36 aid to disabled. As of the beginning of this month the case load included: Old age assistance 286; blind pension, 104; aid to dependent children, 79; general assistance, 31 and aid to disabled, 44.

The number of persons receiving assistance dropped from 840 to 833. The largest numbers of persons receiving assistance are old age recipients of which there are 302 as compared to 318 a year ago, and aid to dependent children, with 292 assisted in the 79 cases on the files, as compared to 305 so assisted last June.

Lower Dental Expense

Cost of children's medical and dental care given during the past two years was less than during the previous two years, according to a report presented at the meeting by Mrs. Verna Myers, director of Public Assistance.

During the years 1951-52 the state provided $2,443.46 for such items as 48 tonsillitomy, 43 pairs of glasses, 11 dental repair cases, and several operations.

In 1949-50, $3,972.60 was allocated for 100 tonsillitomy, 37 pair of glasses and 27 dental repairs.

The accounts cover medical and dental care given through the Assistance Board in cases where such needs are uncovered in the school health examination throughout the county and where the parents of the children, some of whom did not otherwise receive assistance, could not pay for the care needed.

L. V. Stock reported on the recent Assistance Board Institute which he and Wilbur Bankert attended at Williamsport.

Rev. A. W. Geigley, president of the board, presided at the meeting. Other directors attending included Mrs. William Conover and Elmer Gruver.

TOM LYON CASE HAS FACES RED OVER SCREENING

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower reportedly is in a knuckle-rapping mood because of failure of the administration's job-screening program to turn up the data which Congress later uncovered in the Tom Lyon case.

And there were indications the President may be somewhat embarrassed personally by his nomination of Lyon to be director of the Bureau of Mines. The White House said it will be withdrawn—the first time Eisenhower has done that.

Secretary of the Interior McKay yesterday asked Eisenhower to withdraw Lyon's name after the appointee requested such action. McKay did so in the wake of Lyon's testimony before a Senate committee that he is: (1) drawing a $5,000-a-year pension as a retired official of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, and (2) is opposed to the federal mine safety law he would administer as Mines Bureau chief.

Rebuke Likely
It developed that Interior Department officials had been unaware of either the pension or Lyon's views regarding the law. Those disclosures reduced his chances of confirmation to near zero.

Government officials who asked not to be named said Eisenhower is having the entire episode investigated and that a sharp rebuke quite likely will be dealt out to those who failed to give him a full report on Lyon's background.

There was no certainty where the blame would fall. Some White House officials were said to feel McKay would have to take the rap.

At the Interior Department, on the other hand, Assistant Secretary Felix E. Wormser said Lyon's nomination was sponsored by Republican Sen. Watkins of Utah, from whose state Lyon comes.

Watkins said it was inconceivable to him that the Truman administration appointed Lyon to a job directly connected with metal mining without first investigating the kind of pension he is getting. Lyon is acting deputy administrator of the Defense Materials Procurement Agency. Since January, 1951, he has held important jobs either in DMPA or in the Defense Minerals Administration.

The Government Services Agency, of which DMPA is a part, said regulations do not require full-time employees to reveal the source of their outside income. Lyon said his pension is part of his official government file and that he has never concealed any outside income.

He told close friends he plans to leave his present government job the end of June. He was described as "horribly upset."

Niklas says there are now 265,000 tractors, plowing ground that horses used to work. But the farmers failed to reduce their oat acreage. So Niklas lowered the price as much as 65 marks (about 16 dollars) per ton effective July 1.

Burning Weevils Is Frowned Upon

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — "You Can't Burn Out the Boll Weevil." This fact is also the title of a folder issued by North Carolina State College Extension Service.

The cover of the folder depicts a raging forest fire in full color—often the result when farmers burn over their fields. The author, Extension Forester John Gray, writes: "You can't burn out the boll weevil unless you burn down all your barns and out-buildings, burn up all your haystacks and stored corn, burn up all woodpiles and stacks of refuse, and get all your neighbors to do the same."

Even then, Gray writes, you would destroy only a very small percentage of the overwintering weevils.

"Fifty years' experience has shown that the only effective way to control boll weevils is to fight them in the field with recommended sprays and dusts," Gray says.

Steam Roller Falls Into Old Cistern

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — New England cities no longer have cisterns at street intersections to help fight fire. But Walter A. Luce of New Bedford remembers when they were found in some New England cities. In the days of the volunteer departments and hand pumpers they furnished a source of water.

New Bedford lost her cisterns, Luce says, when a steam roller was used to install modern paving. The supports of the cisterns could not hold the weight of the roller which fell into a cistern.

The island of Jamaica in the West Indies is about the size of Connecticut.

Charles Hernandez, director of the Communications Department from 1906 to 1909 and from 1913 to 1920, appears on each adhesive.

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A new kind of Irish emigrant leaves for the United States in April — a four-year-old Connemara pony. The pony, a roan mare, is believed to be the first of this graceful breed ever sold to the United States. Frank Tierney of Ridgefield, Connecticut, saw it running wild on Connemara bogland and bought it on the spot.

Former owner R. T. Curley now has had the pony trained for children's riding and hopes it may start a demand for Connemaras among American youngsters.

It is estimated that in 1950 cultivated crops in the United States took six million tons of nitrogen out of the soil of which three million tons was replaced by nature and one million by chemicals, leaving a deficit of two million tons for that year alone.

LANDSCAPING FRONT YARDS IS IMPORTANT

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP) — Now that you're proud of your vegetable garden, all things considered, why not see how things are going out front? says Russell Stanton, Rutgers University College of Agriculture.

Do some meditating on the appearance of your yard as you stroll along the front sidewalk. If the picture is not altogether pleasing you might like to consider some landscaping.

By doing the work yourself and selecting plants that grow naturally in your part of the country you can end up with a satisfactory job.

Many landscape failures result from poor choice of plants, such as the tree in the foundation planting that grows up beyond the bedroom windows, shutting out light and air. Raymond P. Korbob, ornamental horticulture specialist at Rutgers, offers some of the advice that has won him the thanks of hundreds of New Jersey home owners.

Door Is Focal Point

The front door should be the focal point of a foundation planting, he says, so that attention is drawn to it. Beware of spectacular plants here, but use a few dignified lawn-growing specimens. Full grown, these specimens should always be lower than the plants at the house corners. These corner plants should reach about halfway between the ground and roof line. Most front entrances need only two plants, one on each side of the door. This is especially true of small homes. Plants with rounded or spreading habits usually are best for this location.

Plants at corners serve to blend the building into the natural surroundings. This is done by concealing the inverted "T" where the vertical building line meets the horizontal ground line. Often one plant is enough — just be patient and wait for it to fulfill its purpose.

A larger home may need a tall plant near each corner plus a lower one at its base.

Hedges For Privacy

Where house and yard are both small the kind of trees used at the corners of large homes can be used on the lawn, to frame the house. You'll be prouder of them, in a few years, than you would of large shade trees that in time might make your house appear small. Border and screen plantings are used to insure privacy rather than to keep out your neighbors, Korbob points out. These are often useful, especially on city properties.

In choosing trees there's a whole list of items to check. Among these are: Shallow and heavy feeding roots, dense foliage, branching habit, size, color of bark, falling seed pods and fruit, insect pests, diseases, rate of growth, color of foliage in fall and hardiness.

The problem is big enough, in short, to make some study worthwhile. Mean temperatures in the southern part of Ontario, Canada, are about the same as those of San Francisco, says the Ontario government.

WHAT'S THE SCORE, CAP?—Squadron mascot Ace, perched on Sabrejet intake, looks questioningly at Capt. Eugene Kamp, Grand Island, Neb., after Korean MIG mission.

Fledgling Writer Fools His Father

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The plot of this story could be entitled, Father doesn't always know best or Junior hit the jackpot by ignoring Father's advice.

Foster Harris, University of Oklahoma writing instructor, would be the first to acknowledge that son Austin, 19-year-old, fledgling scribbler, put one over on him. Austin, a freshman at the university, without any formal training in the craft, sold for $850 a short story to a national magazine (Ladies Home Journal).

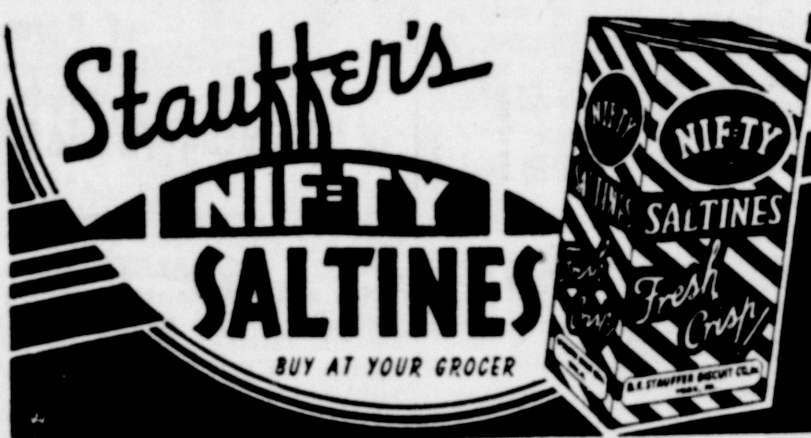

"We were both flabbergasted," Austin confesses. The tale is about teen-age hot rod drivers told in the first person. It was sold with only one revision.

Austin, who can't enroll in father's writing course, open only to upperclassmen, has gotten most of his skill by osmosis. "Absorbed it through his pores," Foster chuckled. "Always writers streaming through the house at all hours talking shop."

Name-Calling Is 20 Cents Per Word

ROME (AP) — Talk costs about 20 cents a word in Italy's long-winded, name-calling parliament.

That's based on the official statistical records of the Chamber of Deputies itself, for the past five years.

The figures are taken from the number of words deputies have used in five years and the operating costs of the Chamber. Many deputies wonder whether most of the words have been worth the 20 cents. They've included some dandies, however, in this Chamber where insults are common. Still based on the Chamber's own statistics, the most frequent hurled insults have been — in this order — "fascist," "shameless liar," "shut up, you rascal," "scoundrel," and "coward." Crowding close after these, in number of times used, have been

"slave of the Americans," and "shame on you."

MILK PRICES IN PHILADELPHIA ARE INCREASED

HARRISBURG (P) — The State Milk Control Commission Wednesday raised milk prices one-half cent a quart to 23 cents, in Philadelphia and its suburbs, effective July 1.

The new producer price, effective at the same time, will be $5.84 cents a hundredweight (46½ quarts) in Philadelphia and $5.69 in the suburbs. The new price represents an increase of 20 cents a hundredweight.

The commission order also fixed tentative retail and producer prices for the two areas through next March.

The commission said it was announcing the fall and winter price schedule "in an effort to eliminate hearings."

Usually, public hearings are conducted in September and December to help the commission decide seasonal price variations.

"Should our October and January prices be out of line we will call hearings and set new prices," said Chairman Jacob B. Mahood.

The prices in Philadelphia, effective Oct. 1 will be 24 cents a quart, and $6.24 a hundredweight; effective Jan. 1, 23 cents a quart and $5.84 a hundredweight.

Suburban prices: Oct. 1, 24 cents a quart and $6.09 a hundredweight; Jan. 1, 23 cents a quart and $5.69 a hundredweight.

WASHINGTON (P)—President Eisenhower and GOP congressional leaders decided Wednesday "to utilize every possible means" in an effort to force action on the block-aded bill to extend the excess profits tax.

GEOLOGIST TO PROBE CAVE-IN

HARRISBURG (P) — William S. Livengood Jr., secretary of Internal Affairs, will assign a geologist to look into the cause of a cave-in at Berwick, if asked to do so.

Livengood made the comment Wednesday when told the Berwick officials reported they thought a state geologist should examine a cave-in there this week.

"We will give them every possible assistance but up to now we've had no request," Livengood told a newsman. "We'll certainly send a man there if they want him."

Livengood said the cave-in "sounds like it could be erosion or an underground cave."

The lawn and the sideyard of a home at Berwick sunk within the space of a few hours during the

Guaranteed Wage Alcoa-CIO Issue

PITTSBURGH (P)—A demand for a guaranteed annual wage, long a cardinal point in labor's fight for security, held the spotlight Wednesday in contract negotiations between Aluminum Company of America and the CIO United Steelworkers.

The big union laid its case for a guaranteed annual wage before ALCOA, largest producer in the industry, in an opening two-hour session yesterday. It is believed the USW also presented demands for a general wage increase, elimination or reduction of geographical and plant pay differentials, and improved welfare and pension benefits.

The 40-foot hole extended about a third of the way under the 12-room house.

SENATE BOOSTS ALLOWANCE FOR FLOOD CONTROL

WASHINGTON (P)—The Senate Appropriations Committee sharply increased House allowances to finance the nation's flood control and navigation program Tuesday but left funds well beneath current program levels.

The committee recommended $455,140,000 to carry out the waterways program in the year beginning July 1. That is $106,766,000 below what the Army Engineers were given the current year.

Although $55,856,000 over that approved by the House last month, the sum is beneath the budget proposals of both President Eisenhower and former President Truman.

Eisenhower had requested $479,490,100, in itself a sharp cut from the $661,524,100 asked by Truman.

Of its recommended $455 million, the committee earmarked $313,236,000 for general construction.

Other Allowances

The committee recommended $2,850,000 for project planning as compared with a House figure of $977,000. The funds were not earmarked but the committee said it expects the corps "will generally adhere" to budget recommendations of the President.

In addition to the waterways program, the bill contains $5,307,400 for U. S. cemetery expenses, $4,655,000 for operation of the U. S. Soldiers' Home, and $13,315,400 for Panama Canal operation.

The bill is not expected to come up for consideration of the Senate before next week at the earliest. It will then be sent to conference to iron out differences between the House and Senate versions.

BLAZE CAUSES MILLION LOSS

NEWARK, N. J. (P) — Fires at three widely separated places in New Jersey Wednesday did damage estimated at $1,050,000. No one was injured in any of the fires though four men were affected by smoke.

A half million dollar blaze swept a block of small stores and apartments in the heart of New Brunswick's business district.

Another, with damage also estimated at $500,000, destroyed a dress factory in Roebling, near Trenton.

In Paterson, the second floor of the Passaic County Republican Headquarters was damaged, and county chairman Lloyd Marsh estimated the loss at $50,000.

Flames swept through seven buildings on New Brunswick's Church St., raging out of control for about three hours and sending out smoke that affected four persons. The Roebling blaze wrecked the block-long Charlotte Manufacturing Co.

FIND JAP BEETLES

HARRISBURG (P)—The first report of Japanese beetles in Pennsylvania this year reached the State Department of Agriculture Tuesday.

The department said the report came from the Harrisburg area where the beetles were "few and scattered."

PROBY TO FACE BIG TEST TODAY

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Wimbledon's famed center court today the scene of the first big attraction in the all-England tennis championships—Budge Patty of Los Angeles against Jaroslav Drobný of Egypt.

After three days in a garden-party atmosphere during which there was nothing even resembling an upset, this match is just what the tournament needed to revive waning interest. The spectators here have spent most of their time wandering from court to court in their restlessness.

Drobný, the squat Czech-born citizen of Egypt, is seeded No. 4 and is the sentimental favorite, largely because he is the only European left who can put up a strong challenge to the Australian and American contingents.

Drobný has made a habit of winning the big tournaments on the continent, but in Patty he will face a player with tremendous capabilities when he concentrates on his game. Patty is unquestionably the most dangerous unseeded player in the tournament.

Truman And Hoover Both In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—It wasn't planned and their paths didn't cross, but the only two living former presidents were both on Capitol Hill yesterday.

Herbert Hoover dropped in briefly on Sen. Taft (R-Ohio). They discussed, in the senator's office, legislation for a new government reorganization commission. Hoover headed one such body.

Few people knew of Hoover's visit, but the Senate galleries were packed when Harry S. Truman visited that chamber.

Truman got a warm bipartisan greeting, was escorted to his old

Senate seat and made a brief speech.

He told the senators they had a duty to "help keep peace in the world."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hugh Butler (R-Neb.) today suddenly called off a hearing on the nominations of Tom Lyon to be director of the Bureau of Mines.

Reports that the administration was reconsidering the whole matter and might actually withdraw the nomination could not be immediately confirmed.

From four to six gallons of water a day are required by every 100 chickens.

IRRIGATING SMALL GARDENS

The general extension of electric power lines throughout rural regions is opening up new and better opportunities for garden and truck crop irrigation. One electrically operated system, computed at what appears to be maximum figures of cost, indicates that after depreciation is deducted the investment pays an annual return of 18 per cent.

But someone may ask — Why go to the expense of installing irrigating equipment when we've been successfully depending on normal rainfall since this country was settled?

Too often we measure irrigation needs only by drought. But this is perhaps a minor phase of the matter. The greater and recurring benefits from a dependable system of irrigation come from supplying moisture uniformly even during seasons when rainfall is normal and no periods of drought occur. In other words, normal rainfall is not enough for maximum vegetable and small fruit growth. There must be extra moisture supplied at critical stages of seed germination, transplanting and throughout the growing stage. Herein is the major phase where artificial irrigation pays its greater dividends. Then of course, when destructive droughts come, the grower gains complete insurance.

But we cannot escape the fact that droughts are more frequent than formerly. Perhaps the removal of forests has curtailed our natural rainfall, and certainly the general water level is gradually lowering throughout the eastern half of the United States. Much of the south, for example, is suffering extreme drought in areas that last summer were almost devoid of rain for several months. One reader in the Piedmont section of North Carolina told the editor last week that he could easily burn his entire lawn over by lighting a match to the dry grass. Small fruits and vegetables are complete loss in vast regions.

The United States Department of Agriculture has recently released a helpful publication on the subject of electrically operated garden irrigation outfits. This is the Farmers' Bulletin 2044 — "Using Electricity in Watering Farm Gardens. Citizens may obtain this instructive publication without charge by writing their congressman or on direct request to the Office of Information, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C.

Wells, dependable springs or constant ponds or creeks may be sources of water. In many instances cisterns are economical sources or at least excellent emergency supplies. Relatively limited roof space will over a normal winter fill a large cistern. If a farm building is located several feet higher than the garden, such a cistern may furnish its own gravitational power to deliver water to the garden.

Open furrow, overhead sprinklers, small rotary sprinklers, and porous hose methods of irrigation are discussed in this new publication. Of course, where intensive gardening is practiced for roadside or urban marketing, the more elaborate and costly systems are warranted.

Every vegetable gardener should write his or her congressman for this bulletin at once. Too, the editor invites all related questions about irrigation.

TIMELY TOMATO PROBLEMS

There are three main sources by which tomato blight gains entrance to plantings in northern regions: (1) From volunteer or early potato plants infected with tomato strain of blight or with the potato type of blight. From such plants spores are carried by wind, water or insects to neighboring tomato plants; (2) From spores gradually carried northward by wind, starting from infected plants in the far south and moving northward as the season progresses until they reach local latitudes; and (3) On tomato plants purchased from southern growers.

It is by the last or third method that blight has already reached many local gardens and commercial tomato fields. And this fact emphasizes the importance of buying state-certified plants when early seedlings are brought in from distant regions.

Many readers are writing for advice on what to do to prevent blight outbreaks and particularly what to do to curb blight after it appears.

IT'S A NEW WORLD — A week-old giraffe gets its first look at the world from the door of the giraffe house as mama stands by at the Taronga Park Zoo in Sydney, Australia.

There are several excellent organic fungicides now on the market for both prevention and curbing purposes. Of course, the main fact to stress in meeting the menace of tomato blight is to prevent it instead of chancing success in attempted cures after symptoms are visible.

Every gardener in this region should, if he is growing tomatoes this year, call his county farm agent and ask his advice on what fungicide to use. Effectiveness varies under conditions and each county agent will advise growers of the most effective spray to use. Bordeaux mixture is still an excellent preventive but may occasionally injure plants, especially early in the season.

Blossom-end rot is not strictly a disease of tomatoes but is a condition likely to result from any of several weather, soil or plant factors. It is seen as a blackening and shrinking of the blossom end of the tomato, usually when the fruit is one-third to half grown, although it may occur any time before ripening. Among causes are:

1. Prolonged drought after an earlier period of sustained plant growth.

2. Excessive rainfall when tomatoes are partly grown in which the soil remains wet for several days or a week or longer.

3. Heavy foliage growth resulting from use of fresh stable manure or fertilizers containing a heavy percentage of nitrogen.

4. Lack of adequate nitrogen resulting in large accumulations of carbohydrates in the plant.

5. Any other factor that results in abnormally heavy foliage.

It is apparent from these general facts that blossom-end rot is likely caused by the growing fruits suffering from a deficiency of moisture. Even when excessive rainfall is the cause this factor is present, perhaps resulting from decay of feeder roots in the high water level.

Stripping off older leaves, mulching the ground liberally, irrigation or other measures to correct the particular situation will usually check or prevent blossom-end rot. In normal seasons when this condition occurs mainly from deficient soil moisture, mulching with waste vegetation pays big dividends in tomato growing in several other ways as well as in balancing the moisture supply and distributing it more uniformly over the season.

New Child Adoption Bill Is Ready For Senate Approval

HARRISBURG (AP)—The way was cleared today for final Senate passage of a bill setting up new child adoption procedures in Pennsylvania.

The much-amended measure was put back into almost its original form yesterday by removal of a previously inserted exemption for church-conducted child care institutions from required approval by the State Welfare Department.

Also stricken out of the bill was another inserted provision exempting persons who receive children for adoption from church institutions from reporting the placement to the courts.

It was these exemptions, inserted two weeks ago, that caused Chairman John M. Walker (R-Allegheny) of the Senate Judiciary General Committee, which held a hearing on the adoption bill, to remark that the "teeth" had been taken out of the measure.

New Amendment
In place of the exemptions, however, still another amendment was made yesterday. This would require the Welfare Department, when it disapproves a child adoption, to file its action with the courts.

The measure stipulated formerly provided for protection of disapproved agencies by permitting appeal to the courts. This appeal, however, would have had to be initiated by the agency. And at its own expense.

The way for passage of the bill appeared to be cleared when the Roman Catholic Church dropped its opposition. All other interested parties previously had approved the measure—until the religious agency exemption amendments were inserted.

Walker today held a statement from Archbishop John F. O'Hara of the Philadelphia Catholic Diocese which voiced no objection to the bill provided it included a "guarantee of due process of law to all children's institutions and agencies."

Ask No Favors
"We ask no favors or exemptions in this matter," the statement said. "We do ask for ourselves and other groups which conduct children's institutions and agencies as private works of benevolence and charity that we be not exposed to arbitrary interference without due notice and an opportunity to be heard."

O'Hara said the bill fails to meet "all the necessities of the child adoption problem in Pennsylvania."

"However, the bill does contain a number of meritorious provisions which represent an advance over present adoption practices," he added.

The measure, which is sponsored by Sens. Edward J. Kessler (R-Lancaster) and Eustace H. Bane (D-Fayette), would have standards set for child adoption agencies by the Welfare Department in cooperation with a 12-member advisory committee.

Although they had originally approved the bill, a number of interested groups came out in strong opposition to amendments exempting religious organizations from approval of the Welfare Department.

GARDEN TESTS ARE URGED BY SOIL EXPERTS

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP) — Good soil is basic to the success of any garden.

As you can't tell how good soil is by looking at it, soil scientists urge chemical testing. Your county agricultural agent will test your soil, but be sure to get your sample to him right away if you expect the test to do you some good this season.

Dr. Firman E. Bear, chairman of Rutgers' Soils Department, points out that your tests won't help you much if you take your sample incorrectly. You need only simple equipment to take the sample — a spade, a clean bucket, a large piece of clean cloth and a pint container, such as an ice cream carton.

First, says Dr. Bear, dig a hole to the depth at which the soil changes color.

With your spade remove a thin slice of soil from the side of the hole.

Place this slice of soil into your bucket.

Mix Samples Together

Take five of these samples from each plot of ground being sampled. Dump the five samples you have collected onto the cloth. (A large sheet of strong, clean paper will do.) Mix the samples thoroughly by rolling them around.

An inexpensive soil testing kit gives results that are accurate enough for the home gardener. Or you can ask your county agricultural agent to test your sample, keeping in mind that he's a busy man and will be getting busier as spring approaches.

Testing your own soil adds to the fun of gardening and gives you something to do while it's too early to dig.

If you decide to send your soil to the agent, fill your ice cream box with the mixture and wrap it securely for mailing. Or take it to him.

It will help in the soil analysis if you include a note explaining what has been planted in the soil, whether the soil has had lime or fertilizer applied and how well it is drained. You might also tell whether the ground from which the samples have been taken will be used for gardening or lawn.

Your soil test report should help you apply the correct amount of lime and fertilizer.

Loam Soil Best

You probably know that a loam soil is best for most gardens. This contains just enough sand to keep the soil from becoming hard and baking. It does not dry out rapidly and readily holds moisture. Small area of clay often can be improved by applying sifted coal ashes or sand. Most gardens can be improved by adding organic matter in the form of well rotted manure, leafmold, half-rotted sawdust and composted materials.

If you don't know about composting tree leaves, household and other wastes, you'd better bone up on this important topic, Dr. Bear suggests.

What about using the new soil conditioners? Competition among manufacturers probably will bring the price down this season, but if you must consider your garden costs, you'll have to decide for yourself whether to use one of the conditioners.

And if you should decide to use a conditioner, by all means follow the directions on the label.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR
The Associated Press
COLOR PHOTOGRAPHY, as practiced by Ivan Dmitri, nationally recognized expert, seems easy, pleasurable and profitable. His keynote to the 250 photographers attending the 1953 Photo Short Course at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio, was: "If you have fun with your pictures, you're likely to get good pictures. If you take it too seriously, it may come harder."

Dmitri must travel around with a 35mm camera constantly at hand for he sees, and shoots pictures everywhere. These are the colorful scenes very early in the morning or at sunset of familiar sights which normally cause us to say, "Oh, boy! Look at that! What a picture!" Only we usually don't have a camera at hand, loaded, or else our energy is expended just thinking about it.

ART WITH MOBILITY—American servicemen look over paintings on side of owner's small bus in Frankfurt, Germany. In background is Frankfurt Cathedral. Owner Rudolf Brooks makes a living traveling about Western Germany in the auto and selling the paintings.

A LAUGH FOR LANA—Screen actress Lana Turner laughs heartily during Rome, Italy, news conference in connection with picture in which she will star. With Lana are actress Pier Angeli, featured in the film, producer Joe Pasternak and director Richard Brooks, right.

There are some concessions that Dmitri makes in order to achieve this mobility of shooting pictures constantly. He uses no tripod. "They feel like handcuffs," he explains, "and I like to feel free to move around and shift angles quickly." He uses no filters. "The colors are there and I take them as they come." He prefers daylight type film and uses blue flash bulbs if he has to shoot indoors.

On those occasions when Dmitri doesn't have a camera, he goes in for mental photography. He studies everything he sees with an appraising eye and a mind that asks, "How would I shoot this?" It's darn good exercise, stimulating your judgment of light, distance and selection of viewpoint.

WHEN PEOPLE are part of the picture, Dmitri feels that spontaneity is one of the most important ingredients of a good picture. It is up to the photographer to inspire the subjects to natural action and to select the right shooting instant to convey that feeling of spontaneous action.

"That is why I rarely use professional models, if I can avoid it," he added. "When hired to pose, they pose. It is not difficult to spot people who look like they belong in a certain setting . . . because they are there . . . and ask them to pose. They are generally flattered.

"Remember, however," he cautioned, "that time is valuable. Work as fast as you can with precision. Not enough to spoil your efforts, but enough to show your appreciation of their time."

After taking pictures of strangers, it is a good idea to get releases from them. Do it as a casual afterthought and ask the ones who show the most cooperation first, as there are always some people who are reluctant to sign anything. Do not present a legal looking document with the customary legal phrases and small type. People would normally hesitate to sign such a release anyway.

Instead, Dmitri has used a one-sentence formula for years, which he writes in longhand on the spot, noting the date and place. It reads:

"Ivan Dmitri has my permission to use my picture in advertising use."

The person signing gives name and address. In the case of children, one of the parents can sign.

A BACKGROUND of art training may account for Dmitri's innate feeling for color and composition. Born Levon West in South Dakota, son of a minister, he turned to art after graduating from the University of Minnesota. His paintings and etchings have been displayed in the Metropolitan Museum of Art and other galleries.

Somewhere along the line the photo bug hit him. His success in that medium changed his career and his name. As Ivan Dmitri, he did a notable series of Saturday Evening Post assignments and toured the world on a continuing American Airlines calendar project that has become an outstanding annual photographic achievement.

For his commercial work, he uses a 4x5-inch camera as well as his 35mm and gets higher angles from a shooting platform built on top of his station wagon.

If you'd like unusual color pictures, try shooting at dusk. From experience, Dmitri figures you have about eight minutes to work in for a variety of color effects. With the shutter at f8, the exposure would vary from about 3, 4 or 5 seconds up to 30 seconds as darkness descended.

"Yes," he admitted, "this is the time for the handcuffs . . . you use a tripod or some firm support for the camera. There isn't time to move around much, so you pick your angle first then stay put."

Nitrogen sprayed on leaves in high concentration is sometimes far more effective in feeding plants than putting the nitrogen in the ground.

ARMY "AMAZED" AS TOP SECRETS ARE REVEALED

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Somebody's security slip was showing today with publication of recent testimony about military secrets by Army officials before a House appropriations subcommittee.

Military secrets which popped into the open included information about:

1. An entirely new weapons-carrying vehicle, nicknamed "The Thing" but carrying the official designation "Ontos," to be used variously, including as a mount for a new "very high-powered" recoilless rifle and for a quadruple .50-caliber anti-aircraft weapon against low-flying planes.

New Guns And Tanks

2. A plan to provide "much longer range" for the 280-millimeter cannon, which now has a 20-mile accurate range and fires either atomic or conventional shells, and a new shell, slightly smaller than the caliber of this giant cannon, expected to extend its range "by about 50 per cent."

3. "Extra light tanks," two of which are under test, of a type expected eventually to replace the 26-ton Walker Bulldog tank.

4. A lightweight radar for battlefield use, apparently to help detect enemy attempts at infiltration of the front line, a technique much used by the Communists in the Korean War.

5. A long-range radar IFF (identification, friend or foe), which could mean the identification of aircraft long before they are within range of anti-aircraft guns or guided missiles.

Secret Information

Army officials expressed amazement and appeared appalled when copies of the 1,667-page printed testimony released by the subcommittee reached the Pentagon.

Among the pages was information on new weapons still stamped secret by the Pentagon. It was not immediately clear how the material had come to be left in that portion of testimony sent for public printing.

Security cropped up on some odd subjects. There were "off the record" notations for discussions on such topics as the number of cigarettes for prisoners of war in Korea, a publicity release to businessmen on why they should support the National Guard, and feed for the courier pigeons of the Signal Corps.

Street Cars Quit During Vacations

ALTOONA, Pa. (AP)—People going on vacation usually like to get away from it all—jangling trolley bells and such.

In this respect, the Altoona & Logan Valley Electric Railway is lending a helping hand to 10,000 shop employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad who start a mass two-week vacation July 4.

The employees, even if they visit the business section, won't be bothered by trolley noises, the railway company says. Most of its trolley business comes from PRR workers who use streetcars to go to work. So, during their vacation, the trolley lines will shut down and buses only will be used.

They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McClain, Reading, Mrs. Miriam Zudrell and daughter, Elizabeth Ann, York, drove the group to New York and returned to the Sheads residence where she will reside until they return.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kane, Major and Mrs. Donald Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Sites Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Spence, Miss Alma Wert, Gervais Eck, Warren Dannelley, and Harvey Wilt spent the weekend on a fishing trip to Rehoboth Beach, Del., and returned with a catch of 327 fish.

Mrs. James Neely is visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary Hoofnagle, Baltimore.

children, Jane and Ann, Falls Church, Va., spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leister, Hazleton.

MAY BRING TAX BILL DIRECTLY TO HOUSE FLOOR

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration marshaled strength today for a last-chance maneuver to try to stave off defeat in a battle to extend the excess profits tax.

The last resort, admittedly a drastic and almost unprecedented move, was to urge the House Rules Committee to bring a tax extension bill directly to the House floor.

This would bypass completely the House Ways and Means Committee, the oldest and one of the proudest of congressional committees, which traditionally must start all tax bills through Congress.

Ike Stopped Cold

Ways and Means Chairman Daniel Reed (R-NY) and his supporters so far had emerged triumphant in a running fight with the administration. They had stopped cold a series of administration moves to get committee action on the tax proposal.

The administration is making an all-out effort to extend for six more months the tax on corporation profits legally defined as abnormal. Eisenhower has insisted the government must have an estimated 800 million dollars involved to help reduce the federal deficit and to fight inflation.

Full All Stops

It was clear, however, that House Speaker Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass) and Majority Leader Halleck (R-Ind) were pulling out all stops in the scrap for the President's proposal. They might be able to persuade some rules committee members to change their minds.

Nepal plans to have its first popular elections in 1954.

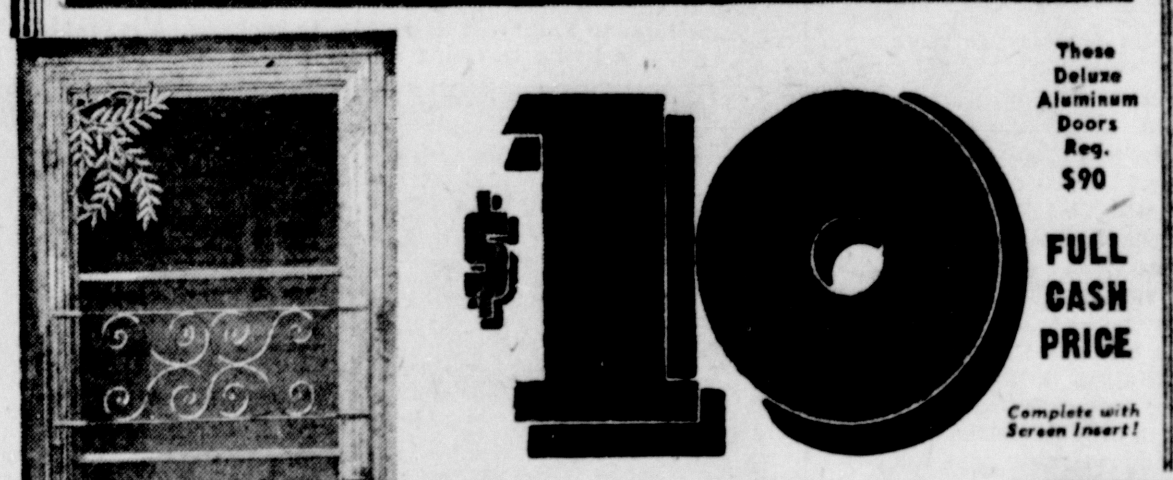

A whip or whisk will beat in more air than a rotary beater; that's why many good cooks like to use this utensil in beating egg whites for angelfood cake. If you are planning to use your whip for angelfood, you'll find that one made of fine wire is best for this purpose.
